

Gratitude Report

FISCAL
YEAR 2022

Dear Friends,

I'm so proud and grateful to be here at the helm of the largest Planned Parenthood affiliate in the country, with 35 health centers in 42 counties across California and Nevada.

I'm proud that we had already spent years preparing for an abortion-care catastrophe by the time Roe fell in late June, just before the end of PPMM's fiscal year.

And I'm grateful that you leaned into helping us get ready.

Your financial support enabled us to act on our plans to build larger health centers near airports and major transportation hubs, train more abortion providers, and expand hours so we can be open whenever our patients need us.

You were with us as we advocated for legislation in California and an executive order in Nevada to protect our states' abortion providers from legal action launched by abortion-ban states. You played a key role in establishing our youth designer program (Y-LED) and expanding PPMM Education's innovative game to teach sex ed, ¡Con Confianza!, designed by and for Spanish-speaking students.

Your donation of time - more than 5,000 hours from nearly 400 volunteers and interns - supported all our programs and teams across the entire PPMM affiliate. You shared stories, learned how to advocate for PPMM services, and made our communities healthier.

I'm grateful for and inspired by every dollar, and every hour you've donated in the past year.

Thanks to you, our doors were open for local and out-of-state patients, and we're ready to serve even more people next year.

In this together,

Dr. Jessica Hamilton

Thanks to you, patients get the care they need

Dr. Jessica Hamilton, associate medical director of abortion services at Planned Parenthood Mar Monte, is an abortion provider who sees our patients in California and Nevada.

She knows, firsthand, how important your support is to the care and well-being of people in the communities she serves.

Recently, she shared three stories about patients who came to Planned Parenthood Mar Monte for the abortion care they needed:

I recently cared for a refugee who came to her appointment with her case worker, and we spoke using an interpreter. She came to the U.S. for asylum, with her children, and she said she could not support another child.

Unfortunately, we do not offer in-center abortion care at her local health center. Usually, we'd refer her to our closest health center with this level of care - which in her case, was 130 miles away. But she was in her second trimester. She would have needed to stay overnight for a two-day procedure. She would also have to find care for her children, travel with her case worker, and find accommodations - the barriers were extraordinary.

Because of the unusual circumstances, we were able to start her procedure at her local health center and see her the next day at our neighboring site.

This woman received the care she needed thanks to your support.

Another patient, a teenager from a rural community in Nevada, had to travel across state lines three times to access abortion care.

We saw her in Nevada, where we routinely do medication abortions, but she was too far along and needed an on-site procedure. We referred her to one of our health centers in California.

She tried to make that drive two separate times. Unforeseen obstacles, like bad weather that closed the roads, kept getting in the way. This delayed her care by more than a month.

I finally saw her in California, one day before her pregnancy was at the age limit for abortion care at PPM.

Next year, after our new Northern Nevada health center is completed, our Nevada abortion patients won't have to endure obstacles like this. Thanks to you, we'll be able to provide on-site abortion care in Nevada, in addition to all our current services.

Sometimes we can't provide abortion care at any of our health centers. Perhaps a patient's pregnancy is too far along or there are medical complications.

That's what happened recently when we saw a patient in her third trimester. She came to us with a deep mistrust of the medical system but needed help. We were able to refer her to a health center in New Mexico for the care she needed.

Because of the trust we established with this patient, she came to us for her first Pap test – and we diagnosed her with cervical cancer. If caught early, treatment can be life-saving, and because we are a trusted provider with longstanding relationships in the local medical community, we were able to quickly refer her to a nearby oncologist who could help treat her cancer.

Stories like this aren't unusual at PPM. Because so many people like you are donating, volunteering, and advocating for Planned Parenthood Mar Monte, there's always a place for people get the care they need – no matter what.

Education is key

Last year you helped us reach 131,622 people through education and outreach programs, including:

- 14,719 comprehensive sex ed students enrolled in PPMM Digital Learning middle school and high school e-courses (Spanish and English).
- 3,848 people received sex ed and info from PPMM high school peer educators and Spanish-speaking adult volunteers (Promotorx).
- 235 young parents received comprehensive case management, positive youth development coaching, and resource navigation to support their parenting and educational goals.
- 105,220 people were reached via PPMM Outreach Kits, including sex ed info and barrier methods. The kits were distributed by 78 community partners in 25 counties in California and Nevada.

The thing I like most about the [PPMM Sex Ed] course is that it gave us a story with characters while still going over important topics. It gives us an idea on how to help someone in need or even help ourselves.
– 9th grade student, Santa Clara County

I liked how it [PPMM Sex Ed] taught us about gender identities, sexual orientation, human trafficking, and more.
– 9th grade student, San Joaquin County

Something I liked most about the course is how they used characters who are probably going through the same thing kids our age are going through.
– 8th grade student, Monterey County

I liked how it was a fun learning experience. The small quizzes and short videos made this course a lot more interesting and engaging.
– 7th grade student, Alameda County

And that's not all!

- 26,509 youth and adults (counted in the total on the left) participated in PPMM core programs including Digital Learning, Peer Education, Youth Development, Adult Training, and Community Education.
- 24,168 more people were reached through social media content created by PPMM Education and Y-LED youth designers. Y-LED apply and are selected annually to research, design, and create relevant, impactful, and accessible sex ed content for youth and young adults.

Protecting care in your community

Here are just some of the recently passed bills that PPMM supported to protect our patients and the communities we serve

CALIFORNIA

AB 2091: Enhances privacy protections for medical records related to abortion care, such as prohibiting disclosures to law enforcement and out-of-state third parties seeking to enforce abortion bans in other states.

AB 2134: Establishes the California Reproductive Health Equity Program, which will give grants to health care professionals who provided uncompensated abortion and contraceptive care to patients with low incomes.

AB 2223: Creates clear and consistent guidance regarding existing protections under the Reproductive Privacy Act, to protect people from prosecutions and criminalization of abortion or pregnancy loss.

SB 1142: Creates a website with comprehensive and accurate information regarding accessing abortion services in California.

NEVADA

Gov. Steve Sisolak signed an executive order strengthening protections for those seeking access to reproductive health care in Nevada. Under the executive order, if services provided are legal in Nevada:

- No executive department agency or employee may provide any information or use time, money, or other resources to assist another state that seeks to impose civil or criminal liability upon a person for receiving, assisting or providing reproductive health care services.
- Health care and other licensed professionals in Nevada must be protected by state oversight boards and commissions and should not be disqualified or disciplined in Nevada based on penalties threatened or imposed under the laws of another state for reproductive health care services.
- The office of the Governor will decline any request received from another state to issue a warrant for the arrest or surrender of any person charged with a criminal violation of a law of that state if the violation alleged involves reproductive health care services.

Volunteers for growth

FY22 volunteer stats:

4,247 Planned Parenthood Mar Monte (PPMM) hours

756.5 Planned Parenthood Advocates (PPAMM) hours

310 unique PPMM volunteers

86 unique PPAMM volunteers

200 intern hours

2 unique interns

My inspiration for volunteering with PP stems from a high school experience. My friend got pregnant at 15. We lived in New Mexico and even though it was 1972 (before Roe v. Wade became law) she got an abortion with no problems. I want abortion rights for all women.

– Glynda, Public Affairs volunteer in Reno

I value reproductive autonomy because it ensures that I can fulfill my career goals and aspirations. It's incredibly fulfilling to be able to work with Planned Parenthood, a national leader in reproductive advocacy, and help make an impact.

– Tanvi, research and phone-bank volunteer

I chose to volunteer for PPMM because I am very passionate about women's reproductive health and rights. After I did a little research on PPMM, I realized that a lot of my beliefs and values aligned with the organization, and I really liked the work that they had been doing over the years.

– Lisha, storyteller and research volunteer in San Jose

I love PPMM because my whole life I struggled to feel supported and heard by a provider. After visiting PPMM, I am grateful to have a provider who cares so much about me, my well-being, and future. PPMM is always fighting for me and now it's my turn to return the favor and fight for them!

– Cristina, Young Philanthropist Cohort, ambassador, and storyteller volunteer in Sacramento

There is so much work to be done, and I want to support the amazing activists and leaders within reproductive advocacy.

– Eve, UC Davis PPGenAction leader

PPMM cares no matter what - supporting, educating, and fighting for people's health and well-being in our communities! PPMM has encouraged me to also nurture and take part in the community.

– Adriana, Public Affairs intern in Reno

I have learned so many great things from being an intern at PPMM. I hope to use my new planning, collaborating, and implementing skills in the future to make a difference in my community and make it a safer place.

– Toria, Public Affairs intern in Reno
