TRANSFORMING HEALTH CARE DELIVERY

There are serious barriers to sexual and reproductive health care, even in Massachusetts where care remains legal. Policies are meaningless unless people can, in practice, reach our services in our health centers or in their homes. In order to tear down these barriers we must find creative solutions to reach patients and transform how we deliver health care.

LEVERAGING TECHNOLOGY WITH TELEHEALTH

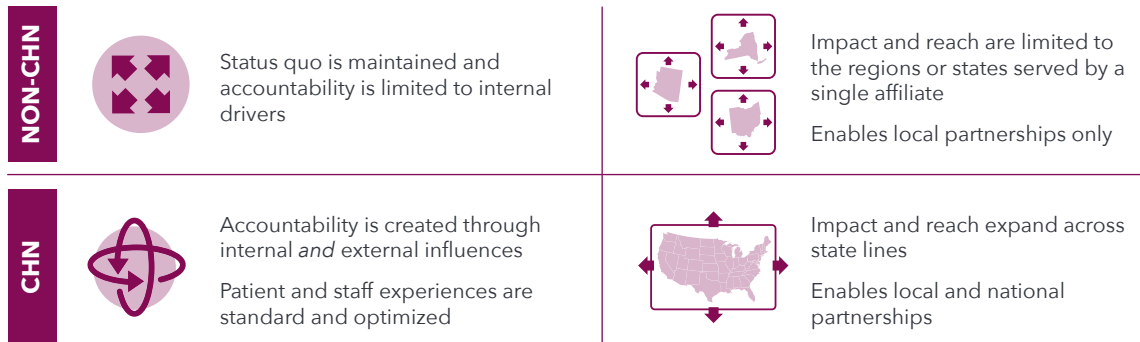

Distance, cost of travel, or obligations such as school, work, and childcare all contribute to preventing people from reaching PPLM health centers. We cannot let these challenges interfere with patients' health.

Clinicians and other health center staff are now able to provide expert, confidential care virtually for thousands of patients across the state, via videoconference or telephone calls, including:

- contraception consultations and prescriptions;
- problem-based and follow-up care;
- gender-affirming hormone therapy (GAHT);
- medication abortion care;
- at-home sexually transmitted infection (STI) testing; and
- PrEP and PEP (two medications to prevent new HIV infections).

NETWORKING FOR GOOD

Clinical Health Network for Transformation (CHN) is an innovative clinical collaborative of Planned Parenthood affiliates, with the vision of safeguarding and expanding Planned Parenthood's mission to bring high-quality, affordable care to every member of the communities we represent. PPLM is proud to be a leading affiliate in this groundbreaking collaboration.

PATIENT EXPERIENCE

We strive for PPLM health centers to be places where anyone can come through our doors and immediately feel warmly welcomed and safe. Last year, PPLM introduced a pilot program that uses patient feedback to inform and improve our services

My partner and I were practically in tears over the care I received here. This is the best care I have ever received in a medical facility.
